Hints for Reading

Reading pill bottles: To read pill bottles or labels on cans, use the Full Color Photo setting and tilt the bottle toward you slightly. This reduces the glare from the curvature of the bottle or can.

Reading different-colored paper: To read different-colored papers, such as blue insurance forms, use the full color High contrast or the Amber on Black settings. These settings enhance the contrast.

Viewing 3-D objects: To paint fingernails, sew, crochet, or do other work in which a 3-dimensional subject moves, use the Full Color Photo setting and lock the viewing table into place.

Hints for Writing

With Aladdin Rainbow you can see what you write as you write it.

When first writing with Rainbow, you should keep the Table Lever locked so that the table cannot move. As you become more familiar with writing, loosen the lever so you can write and move the reading table at the same time.

To best orient your pen to the page, place the point of the pen above the surface of the paper. Move the pen until you see it on the screen. Now watch the screen as you lower the point of the pen down to the paper and begin writing.

- Use the Full color Photo setting, especially the first few times you write. This will reduce glare from the pen's surface.
- Use the smallest magnification so that you can see whole words as you write.
- Use paper with heavy lines and a felt-tipped or other pen with a heavy point.
